- After one semester at Trinity I can say Dr. Oxley was definitely the best professor I had this semester. His lectures are very good, sometimes he can go slightly off topic but it is actually quite enjoyable and helpful as he may add extra depth to the course by adding macro concepts, game theory, etc. The expectations in this class are clear. Unlike some other professors and teachers I've had in the past who took themselves maybe a little too seriously and took pride in making their class/tests extremely hard, Dr. Oxley sets you up for success. Ultimately, it is way better this way as I feel like I have a very good grasp on the content, and as a result have gotten a good grade. When I sign up for Econ classes in the future I will look for sections taught by Dr. Oxley.
- I enjoyed this course because it got me the credits I needed and the instructor was very likable and enjoyable to listen to
- I had a good time in the class. I had taken microeconomics in high school but Dr. Oxley helped me understand the material much better and brought more real world examples into his lectures. Additionally the content in this class was more expansive and is more beneficial
- I had heard good things about Dr. Oxley, so I had decided to take his class. I enjoyed his class a lot. It was a great atmosphere and he has amazingly positive energy, even at the end of the day when he has taught back to back classes. I would definitely take another econ course only if he was teaching it.
- I have had an overall positive experience in the course. The course load was very manageable while also being effective. The lectures were efficient and enjoyable and the professor was helpful and clear with expectations.
- I only took this course as part of the curriculum for business majors. I had no prior knowledge of the course or instructor.
- I really enjoyed the entire semester with Dr. Oxley. Despite the class being so late in the day he always seemed excited to be here and was incredibly detailed when answering questions or giving examples. His lecture style was really helpful and I actually felt well prepared for every exam. I also really appreciated the extra credit opportunities he gave and that they pertained to the content. This was by far one of my favorite classes this semester.
- I think Oxley is a great teacher and I'm happy I took this course.
- I was certainly satisfied with the content in the class. Dr. Oxley is a great professor and his lessons were easy to follow. I had some struggles with the course itself at times but I never felt lost in the content.
- It fulfilled its requirement and it was somewhat enjoyable. That's all you can ask for.
I took economics two times before this (in high school), and this is the first time I've successfully learnt the information.
- Overall, I enjoyed the class. Econ has never been something I've been good at, but I think I've managed to do decent in the course.
- Principles of Microeconomics is part of the basic fundamentals needed when going into business so this was a great class for me to take.
- Professor Oxley is nice and accommodating. I wish concepts were given with real world applications like applying definitions to an imaginary business, and explaining why graphs look the way they do. I felt like we were given a lot of concepts and graphs without tying it down to the real world.
- This course can easily be passed by following what the teacher advises. For instance, reading each chapter before class helps solidify what the teacher is talking about during lectures. As a result, the concepts are easier to grasp.
- This was a very straightforward course with well defined objectives and straightforward grading processes.
- This was an overall great experience and I feel that I need to work more on studying better in what the material is.
- With this course, as I needed to take it for my intended major, I am so pleased I took it with Dr. Oxley. Dr. Oxley is an incredible professor who clearly has a love and passion for teaching and it is seen as he passes that into his students when in class. As this was my first econ class ever, I am glad Dr. Oxley taught it to me. His teaching methods were very clear and when I had a question with anything, he was always available for help. Another thing I really appreciated with Dr. Oxley is that he is a very understanding teacher and it made me feel safe and comfortable for asking help whenever I needed it.
- my experience in this course has been great as the teacher has emphasized lectures, in class discussions and has a fair workload for the class subject.

- Dr. Oxley's lessons all felt very intentional and organized, like there was always a set point to get to and we got there. The evaluation of my work felt fair and representative of how I also felt about the work. When I got things wrong, the corrections certainly were helpful and beneficial and always felt constructive. I also felt Dr. Oxley was one of the easiest professors to access outside of class.
- Everything is very simple and to the point grading wise. Sometimes can be hard to reach given that he's been out of town quite a few times.
- He always has a plan for what we're doing in class. I never went to office hours but I think others were able to access him, and he would respond to emails quickly.
- Organization and preparation was great, had all the lectures prepared way ahead of time. Tlearn page was also super easy to navigate. He has definitely had the simplest to navigate Tlearn page in my three years here.
- Oxley's been widely available and helpful throughout the year
- Teacher is always available with office hours, grades fairly and all grades assignments are laid out in a way that you know how to get the grade you want if you put in the work.
- The instructor knows what they are talking about and I appreciate that he also includes real world applications instead of keeping it solely theory based.
- The instructor was available often and was flexible.
- The professor was well organized and a very effective lecturer.
- The teacher had helpful materials and was consistent throughout the semester with teaching, homework, and tests.
- This course is very structured with little to no fluctuation. Dr. Oxley was prepared for each class and was very put together and professional.

2.7) Please comment on your answers to questions 2.5 and 2.6.

- Course is not hard itself as economics is basic concepts but the teacher does a great job explaining the difference between certain things and why certain things are the way that they are.
- Dr. Oxley always promoted a good and fun class whenever his students walked into class while learning the needed information about economics.
- I learned a lot in this microeconomics course and critical thinking was necessary for almost every part of the material.
- I only say I'm not learning a great deal because I already took Econ in high school, but this was still more in depth and a better overall class than my high school course.
- I was able to apply the content learned in this course in all my other classes I took this semester.
- It was an introductory course, I was not expecting it to be too much new information since we took economics in high school. But I found myself to learn a lot, and was exposed to many new topics.
- It's economics, you can only learn so much when you don't really care about it. But nonetheless, I learned more than I have in classes I do care about.
- Just felt like a lot of definitions and things were thrown at us a lot.
- This course has everything I would have wanted from a base econ class. Provides good amount of basic information that will be able to expanded upon in higher level econ classes
- This course teaches exactly what you would expect it to and I learned exactly what I was hoping to learn.

- This is my first economics class and I am pleased that I understand most of the concepts. They all make logical sense to me.
- Yes especially through the econ in the real world assignments which had me look at the news differently with new micro concepts in mind.
- when coming into the class I thought it would be a review course for me but I was learning new things the whole way through it. The nature of the content is though provoking and requires critical thinking

2.10) Please comment on your answers to questions 2.8 and 2.9.

- 10/10 would recommend.
- Again, the application to the real world helps solidify my understanding and I can better identify economic concepts in news.
- As a business major I would definitely take any class he offers in the future. I learned more this semester than I did in the AP economics class in high school, and I actually enjoyed what we were learning.
- Dr. Oxley was a great teacher that is sincere. he taught the class well and effectively conveyed the information from the slides he was using. good class and a good teacher.
- Great teacher who is always available for his students and able to answer any questions. Overall the class is great as you get out of it what you put in and the class style is great as it keeps everyone focused and engaged on the content.
- I think it is easy to see that Dr. Oxley is a new teacher. However, I do think he is an amazing professor. He will always make time for his students and makes the class accessible. That being said, he tends to get lost in his sentences, making some of the lectures confusing.
- I would definitely give Dr. Oxley a good and positive rating and I would recommended him to other future students who are wanting to take microeconomics.
- I would give a positive rating and more. I really enjoyed Dr. Oxley's style of teaching and the organization of lectures. He is very understanding and super flexible, with an amazing attitude during class. I would recommend students to take his classes.
- It was a fun course to take with a good workload balance. I learned a lot in this course without it interfering with my other courses.
- One area for improvement would be the fluidity of lectures but other than that a great course with clear and well defined expectations
- Oxley obviously cares a lot about his teachings and his students and it shows.
- The course was the right amount of difficult as well as stimulating. I feel like I truly did learn the content that was being presented to me. And Dr. Oxley made learning that content easy as well, seeing as he always gave the lectures in engaging ways that helped me to understand the content provided.
- This course was great with Dr. Oxley
