Comments Report

1. Background Questions

1.7) Considering your selections above, please comment on your experience in this course.

- At the beginning of the semester, I was very worried that this course would be one of my most frustrating to take at Trinity. However, that was not my experience. I have learned a great deal in this course, mostly when actually applying the concepts to problems or real-world experiments/situations.
- Good experience.
- Honestly our professor really tries to gain feedback from us and utilizes it. A first time teaching a course is never easy but he truly cares about our grades and learning styles.
- Largely my experience has been pleasant. The teacher is friendly and helpful outside of class. The only problem is how the class is taught. I think that the information on the slides is too dense and often too difficult to understand at the time. very few people ask questions in class and I think it's simply from not even knowing what's happening in the class at the time.
- This class has been great. It's useful preparation for those who want to obtain a graduate degree in Economics. My only grievance is that the workload could be a bit more spread out: Right now, our EOY assignments include a paper, a presentation, and a final exam. It would be more manageable to do away with one of these, or move the due date for the paper.
- This has been a very interesting course with lots of applied lessons when writing our research papers. It is also a nice mix of Econ and mathematics.
- This has nothing to do with professor oxley, but after taking MATH 3334 and MATH 3335. I felt that this class was not needed. I have already learned a lot about stats and would have preferred to learn more economics.

2. ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT STUDENT COURSE EVALUATION

2.4) Please comment on your answers to questions 2.1, 2.2, and 2.3.

- Dr. Oxley is always ensuring that students understand the topics covered and gives great feedback on tests and quizzes
- Dr. Oxley is extremely helpful during office hours! I feel like I sometimes repeatedly ask the same question, but he never gets frustrated. He will explain concepts using verbal communication, written communication/visuals, as well as through real-world data collected.
- Nothing to really say
- Organized lessons and good feedback.
- The professor was able to assess how fast he needed to teach early on into the course and was able to make the course much more accessible to us. He is always helpful in office hours and holds them throughout most days of the week.

2.7) Please comment on your answers to questions 2.5 and 2.6.

- Course is important with relevant information.
- I feel confident running regressions in R after the homework problems
- I felt the first quizzes made us think and though I like the higher grades towards the end I feel as that aspect is gone a little bit now since we know exactly the type of question that will be on the tests
- I have learned a lot about applying statistics to economics and being able to model relationships between variable.
- I have taken business statistics previously, but I am not sure that I could have applied my learnings to real-world data. Now, I have a greater understanding of the content and can apply what I've learned to statistical data.
- I wish we connected what we are learning more to real life examples. That would be helpful for when we start the final paper.
- Nothing to comment

2.10) Please comment on your answers to questions 2.8 and 2.9.

- Dr. Oxley is a great professor and although its the first time he is teaching this class, I am glad that he moved the schedule around to ensure proper time to cover each topic instead of rushing through the last few chapters.

- Good teacher.
- I felt like we tried to cover too many topics in one semester and didn't go in depth on anything
- I think he could greatly improve the class by focusing more on example problems
- The course has a sharp learning curve at the beginning but after that the material is not incredibly hard and the professor is very helpful with learning the material. Great experience
- The course is well organized. The weekly quizzes were initially worrisome, but became more clear throughout the semester. The exams were very straightforward and fair. The homework was extremely helpful and relevant to the course.
- The instructor does a great job condensing materials for the lecture, but this class is still very lecture-heavy (other economics courses have this same problem). It would be better to have games, class activities, group works, etc. in place of lectures.
